

Sinclair Broadcasting's decision to force their stations to air an anti-Kerry documentary days before the election is a clear example of the dangers of media consolidation.

Sinclair uses the public airwaves free of charge, and is obligated by law to serve the public interest. When they air an anti-Kerry program without equal time for an anti-Bush program, clearly they do not serve the majority of their viewers.

Sinclair should be censured; and the next time their license is up for renewal, they should be held accountable for their actions.
